Stop It Now! Scotland is a child protection charity dedicated to preventing child sexual abuse.

We believe that the key to preventing child sexual abuse is to build confidence in parents and the public in recognising the warning signs and responding effectively.

Our confidential helpline

Our confidential UK helpline (0808 1000 900) is available for anyone with concerns about child sexual abuse. Callers do not need to give identifying information, so can remain completely anonymous. We speak to thousands of people every year, and help them take action to protect children and young people from sexual abuse and exploitation.

The signs of child sexual abuse aren’t always obvious, and a child might not feel able to tell anyone what’s happening to them.

If you have any concerns for a child’s safety and child sexual abuse, then please take action now. These concerns might be about an adult or another child’s behaviour.

By sharing your concerns, you’re taking the first steps in keeping children safe and getting the right support this will help put your mind at ease.
Services for parents and carers

• We offer individual and groupwork support to parents and carers of children and young people who have displayed sexually abusive behaviour either online or offline.
• We offer individual and groupwork to partners and family members of people who have been charged with an online or offline sexual offence.
• We offer direct work with parents who are worried about risk of sexual harm to their own child to help manage and reduce those risks and promote safety.
• We work with children and young people who have got into trouble because of their online sexual behaviour.

All of our services are free and available to anyone in Scotland. They are provided either from our Edinburgh office or offered remotely.

If you or your child already has an allocated social worker, with your permission we can discuss what supports we can provide with them. Alternatively your social worker can make a direct referral to us.
