

Train the Trainer

Want to learn how to support individuals and families affected by child sex abuse? Interested in improving your knowledge of child safeguarding and abuse prevention? Eager to further your professional development?

Stop It Now! Wales is holding Train the Trainer events, where participants will take part in the Professionals Protect training to understand more about child sexual abuse and its prevention. Following this session, participants will be provided with training on how to deliver the Stop It Now! Wales Parents Protect presentation in their role or community.

We are now taking bookings for our Train the Trainer sessions.

These are available as a one-day face-to-face session in a venue of your organisation's choice or two consecutive morning sessions online (either on Zoom or Teams). These sessions are an opportunity not only to help protect children and your community from harm but to gain confidence and skills in your professional life.

This training will equip you to:

- understand more about the different types of child sexual abuse
- identify the warning signs in children and adults, in order to make risk assessments
- explore potential risk factors to a child or family
- highlight positive preventative actions for parents and carers
- signpost to a range of prevention resources
- deliver Parents Protect training within your role
- pass on your knowledge of child sexual abuse prevention to parents and carers.

Train the Trainer Champions

Participants will also have the opportunity to become Stop It Now! Train the Trainer Champions. We are looking for motivated, enthusiastic individuals, who are passionate about protecting children from harm to represent us.

If you work in your community and would like to participate, please register your interest or book a session by contacting swalton-jones@stopitnow.org.uk.

For an informal conversation about the session, please contact Sarah on 0793 695 7591.

The training is funded by Welsh Government and free to all participants in Wales.
